

SCRUM ALLIANCE® CREDENTIAL

Certified ScrumMaster® Training

Official 16-hour course, two days. Private or open enrollment.

Why team training

Sending one person back to change the system rarely works. Whole-team training gives everyone the same language and the same tools. When the group can name what is going wrong together, struggle becomes workable, and leadership can see enough to trust the team.

What our clients say

This is my 3rd agile transition but the only one where I have invested in training for the whole team. I cannot emphasize enough how much that helps. Even when we struggle we all have the tools to talk about what is the problem. The biggest win, so far, has been that my boss has greater insight and thus greater trust in us. It has made my relationship with him stronger.

Robert, VP of Engineering

About 3Back

3Back is the Team Execution Company. For nearly three decades we have worked one persistent concern: how people make difficult work better. Scrum and Agile are part of that history. We have taught and delivered them extensively. The Certified ScrumMaster® with 3Back is the official Scrum Alliance® credential, taught so it holds up in real teams, not only on a resume.

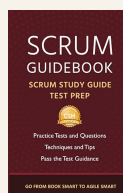

What every participant receives

- Official Certified ScrumMaster® course with a Certified Scrum Trainer®
- Scrum Study Guide (3Back materials written for this class)
- Practice exams
- LMS access for materials and exam preparation
- Scrum Alliance® exam fee and two attempts included
- Two-year Scrum Alliance® membership upon passing
- 99% pass rate support via Study Guide, practice exams, and LMS

At a Glance

Duration	16 hours (2 days)
Format	Live. Private or public.
Prerequisites	None
Outcome	CSM® eligibility and exam
Exam	50 questions, 37 to pass, 2 attempts
SEUs / PDUs	14 / 14

Included materials

Scrum Study Guide

Written for this class.

Scrum Mastering

Companion reference.

TWO-DAY INTENSIVE

What the class covers

Facilitated discussion, activities, and simulation. Participants practice the judgment the ScrumMaster® role requires, not only the vocabulary.

Course outcomes

- ◆ Clearer ownership: roles and decision flow that survive after class
- ◆ From Agile language to Agile behavior: practice, not ceremony compliance
- ◆ Capability, not just awareness: applied skill the team can use under pressure
- ◆ Shared language so private cohorts return ready to work the same way

Your goals for this delivery

Blank lines for outcomes you want written into a private engagement.

Goal 1 _____

Goal 2 _____

Goal 3 _____

Agenda

Overview of Scrum and Agile practices

- What Scrum and Agile are, and are not
- The Scrum framework end to end
- Modern Scrum in real organizations
- Where Scrum fits

Roles and events

- ScrumMaster®, Product Owner, Developers
- Sprint Planning, Daily Scrum, Review, Retrospective
- Accountabilities when work is messy
- Events that stay useful, not ceremonial

Building and guiding the team

- Well-formed teams vs. groups with titles
- Ownership, accountability, social contracts
- Scrum values under delivery pressure
- Maturing a team without theater

Stories and the backlog

- Backlog items that can be finished
- Definition of Done that protects quality
- Refinement and prioritization in practice
- Stakeholder input without losing focus

Scrum in the organization

- Quality and value as operating concerns
- Progress signals that inform decisions
- Tooling: support vs. process theater
- Scale only after the unit works

The ScrumMaster® role

- ScrumMaster® vs. project manager
- Supporting the Product Owner
- Flow, communication, facilitation
- Emergent leadership vs. command and control

Request an on-site (or private virtual) course

3back.com/certified-scrummaster-training

Public: 3back.com/events

Certified ScrumMaster® is a registered certification mark of Scrum Alliance®, Inc.