

CORE EXPRESSION

Organizations do not outgrow teams. They lose the boundaries that made teams effective.

Visual target

Quiet authority.
Operational depth.
Concentrated signal.
A bias toward action.

TYPOGRAPHY · SOURCE SANS 3

Clear enough for the work. Distinctive enough for the thinking.

DISPLAY · 700

Find where execution has lost grip.

Clear hierarchy. Prominent claims. Readable at a glance.

EDITORIAL READING · 400 / 600

Evidence first.

Preserve what works, identify the real constraint, and recommend bounded changes tied to demand and delivery.

BRAND ARCHITECTURE

The identity endures. Strong ideas can lead without becoming separate brands.

ENDURING IDENTITY

3Back

Step back far enough to see what the current frame is hiding, then return to the work with better control.

LEAD OPERATING LENS

Operational Grip

How would you know? Bound what you can, act locally, observe the effects, and learn.

Well-Formed Teams, Agility, Scrum, and future strong ideas remain in 3Back's body of work.

DIAGRAM LANGUAGE

Show boundaries, flow, and observable effects.

01 Demand A signal enters the work system.	02 Bounded response Local judgment acts where the work lives.	03 Delivered value The response reaches use.	04 Acceptance The market reveals what mattered.	05 Revenue Commercial evidence closes the loop.

CASE EVIDENCE

Proof should show the work.

The condition observed

What weakened control or obscured demand.

The bounded change made

One decision, one owner, one observable move.

The observable result

What changed, what did not, and what became knowable.

BIAS TOWARD ACTION

You do not need the perfect place to start.

You need a bounded place where action will reveal the system.

Start with one bounded problem

TALES OF THE GRIP

Failure made recognizable.

Dry, diagnostic humor. The mechanism appears before the explanation arrives.

"The decision is local.
The permission structure is not."
